Professional Development Series Fall 2011 Lineup

If it's noon on a Friday in October, it's time to expand your horizons as a teacher and researcher. Once again this year, the GSO makes professional development even more enticing by providing a free lunch!

This semester's topics/speakers:

- Copyright, Fair Use, and the Public Domain: What Every Grad Student Needs to Know, with Dr. Kevin Dames. Friday, Oct. 7, 12:00-1:30 pm. HL 207
- Data Analysis Tools: Finding the Right Fit for Your Research, with Dr. Paul Bern. Friday, Oct. 14, 12:00-1:30 pm. HL 207

- Critical Pedagogies: Teaching/Learning, Politics and Praxis, with Prof. Tania Ramalho. Friday, Oct. 21, 12:00-1:30 pm. HL 207
- Strategies for Responding to and Managing Student in Distress, with Dr. Cory Wallack. Friday, Oct. 28, 12:00-1:30 pm. HL 207

Also, a reminder that FPP participants and faculty can apply to present in this series using the easy online form or by emailing Glenn Wright (glwright@syr.edu) with a description of the program and its value to grad students. Now accepting proposals for Spring 2012!

Words from WiSE: Fall Events and New Faces

The Women in Science and Engineering (WiSE) Future Professionals Program (FPP) is proud to begin its 5th year providing academic and career support programs for science and engineering doctoral students.

This year we expect to have an excellent cohort of returning PhD students and several new PhD students. We are pleased to announce the hiring of our new Program Assistant, Sarah Miraglia, a doctoral candidate in Sociology and recent graduate of the MPA program. Ms. Miraglia will coordinate the WiSE-FPP program among other duties. We have a number of events planned for the fall 2011 semester that focus on building networking skills, creating a successful career map and achieving work-life balance for women in science and engineering. We look forward to a fun and productive year!

Our first event that is open to doctoral students, postdocs and early career faculty is on September 22nd, with Dr. Barbara Minsker, a Professor of Environmental Engineering at the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign. The title of her seminar will be "A Joyful Path to Career Success." She will be providing tips on how to define academic success and connect with your personal needs to achieve work-life balance. If you would like to be on the announcement list for this workshop, please email Sarah Miraglia at icswise@syr.edu.

FPP "(En)Countering Plagiarism" Mini-Series

The Religion Department's FPP is holding a fall mini-series entitled "(En)Countering Plagiarism" as a means to engage with the tensions and trials surrounding plagiarism and academic dishonesty in higher education. FPP participants are invited to attend any or all of the sessions. In addition, the program is providing a comprehensive list of readings that will be discussed during the mini-series to anyone interested in the topic but unable to attend.

AUGUST 29: SETTING THE STAGE

1. T. Gabriel, "Plagiarism lines blur for students in digital age" (NYTimes, 8/01/2010)
2. S. Fish, "Plagiarism is not a big moral deal" (NYTimes, 8/09/2010)
3. E. Dante, "The Shadow Scholar" (Chronicle of Higher Education, 11/12/2010)

Also Recommended: W. Sutherland-smith, "The Six Elements of plagiarism," in Plagiarism, the Internet and Student Learning (Routledge, 2008)

SEPTEMBER 12: THE CULTURAL SETTINGS

1. S. Blum, "Intertextuality, Authorship, Plagiarism," in MyWord!: Plagiarism and College Culture (Cornell UP, 2009)
2. D. Berrett, "Skimming the Surface" (Inside Higher Ed, 4/11/2011)
3. M. Miller, "Let's talk about Plagiarism" (Inside Higher Ed, 7/21/2011)
4. S. Iaschik, "Who is Punished for Plagiarism?" (Ethical Issues in Graduate Writing, 7/22/11)

SEPTEMBER 19: PRESUMPTIONS AND PRACTICES

1. D. Horacek, "Academic Integrity and Intellectual Autonomy," in Pedagogy, not Policing (Graduate School Press, SU, 2009)
2. David Nentwick, "Ethical Issues in Graduate Writing," in Pedagogy, not Policing
3. A. England, "The Dynamic Nature of Common Knowledge," in Originality, Imitation, and Plagiarism: Teaching writing in the digital age (U of Michigan Press, 2008)

"Strategies for Success in Your Doctoral Program: Advice for 1st- and 2nd-Year PhD Students"

Friday, Sept. 30, 9:30 am–3:00 pm
Schine Student Center 304ABC

For the first time ever, the GSO, the Graduate School, and Career Services are hosting a one-day conference exclusively for 1st- and 2nd-year PhD students. You'll get candid advice and insider tips that will help you navigate the sometimes choppy waters of a doctoral program. Come learn how to get the advising—and funding—you need, while avoiding the common pitfalls of doctoral study.

Dr. Hinda Mandell, Assistant Professor of Communication at RIT and a 2011 SU PhD (Mass Communications), will deliver the keynote address.

This free event includes lunch.

Graduate School Grants Available for FPP Programming

Are you planning—or planning on planning—a departmental FPP event that would be of general interest and benefit to FPP participants across campus? You can apply for grants of up to $500 from the Graduate School to support departmental programming open to the FPP community.

Some possible uses include speaker honoraria, travel reimbursement, food, room fees, publicity, and costs associated with video recording or encoding for web upload. Creative thinking about other kinds of services or projects of value to aspiring academics is likewise encouraged.

PFLs, Faculty Teaching Mentors, or FPP participants can make proposals using the easy online Departmental Funding Request Form, or email Glenn Wright (glwright@syrr.edu) with a description of the event and its relevance to a general audience of FPP members, a tentative date and location, and a budget or explanation of how the money will be used.

Now accepting proposals for the 2011-2012 academic year!
